

Responding to Embarrassing Kid Moments

worksheet

Dive into the child's world and describe what you see in the moment without judgement, fixing, teaching or questions.

Example one

When responding to a child saying anything about size, you could say...

"You noticed that her tummy is bigger than yours. That peaked your curiosity. Next time you can say, I am small. Or you are bigger than me."

Example two

When responding to a child saying anything about skin color, you could say...

"You noticed that his skin is a different color than yours. Some people have light skin and some people have dark skin and that makes us each beautiful and unique."

Example three

When responding to a child saying anything about the birds and the bees, you could say...

"You are very curious about babies and where they come from. I wonder if there is a book that could help us find the answer."

Example four

When responding a child saying, unfavorable words you could say...

"You learned a new word that you heard mommy and daddy say. That shows your ears know how to listen well. You can only say those words in your bedroom."

Learn more about this at <http://www.themilitarywifeandmom.com/get-over-embarrassing-kid-moment/>